

Just one bar of soap can start a successful business.
I have used it, other people have used it, and you can too.

Here's how it works.

You can find a lot of new customers with soaps, oils, and personal care products. Because these are things that almost everyone needs, soap and personal care products are easy for almost anyone to buy. They don't cost a lot of money to get started with. And customers will come back to you for more over and over again. But people need to try just a little bit before they know what they are missing. So you start them off with a free sample.

When I visit new customers, I sometimes give people a free bar of soap. Even when people are too busy to talk with me, they pay attention when I hand them this gift. Not only this, I know that these people will remember me every time they take a shower, or use their new soap some other way for the next few weeks.

You can spend even less than you would for a bar of soap. You can give your best prospects more samples; and, you can get your first sales faster this way. Instead of giving away a whole bar of soap, you can get more chances to get a new customer, by giving people a part of a bar of soap.

If you can build up a core group of customers who each purchase just $50 per month from you, you will have a base that supports you while you build your business even more. Customers who you meet with your soap will come to you for the other products you offer. You will grow faster. You will get more free advertising when people tell their friends. And it can all start with just a bar of soap.

4 Fast Ways to Sell More!

1. Know the right time.

It is right after someone has already bought something. That's right, when someone has just purchased something from you, they are the most comfortable buying something else. They are also already comfortable buying it from you.

2. Make more sales with each customer.

Don't stop after the order is complete. You can make yourself and your business more successful by always mentioning an add on product at the end of an order. African Black soaps are the perfect add on products.

3. You can sell more.

African soaps are the perfect impulse item. Leave these on your counter, or show them to your customers when they are finishing their purchase. Almost everyone loves these soaps. And absolutely everyone needs them. Find out how African soaps can grow your business faster, no matter what you sell now.

4. How to price your soaps.

You can lower your price, and make more money at the same time. Soaps and personal care products sell better than almost any other products with special pricing. You can give customers the chance to buy three and get one free. Or give a free bar of any soap when your customer buys something else. For whatever reason, customers are faster to add soaps to an order, than almost any other type of product.
